Torch Singer, Freed on Bail, Flees into Obscurity During Night Hours.

HIDING PLACE IS SECRET

Suspect in Reynolds Death Leaves Country Hotel About 2 A. M.

By The Associated Press

REIDSVILLE, N. C., Aug. 9—Her surrender completed and her bail arranged, Libby Holman, Broadway torch singer and alleged mariticide, speeded back into obscure retirement at 2 o'clock this morning

Wearing dark glasses and accompanied by two unidentified young men, the singer dashed from the little country hotel here, stepped into a waiting automobile and left no clue or hint of her destination

With her arrival here last night following the habeas corpus hearing in Wentworth which resulted in her immediate release on bail of $25,000, every effort was made to convey the impression that she would remain for the night Her father, Alfred Holman, departed for Winston Salem early in the evening and the lights in her room were extinguished They blazed on again shortly before 2 o'clock

A few minutes later Miss Holman and two young men appeared in the lobby

"Is anybody around?" one of them inquired of the clerk

The hotel employe replied in the negative and Libby led the way to the automobile.

Immediately after her surrender yesterday to Sheriff Transou Scott, Miss Holman was taken, along with a writ of habeas corpus, before Judge A M Stack in Wentworth

Judge Stack allowed the same bail as that fixed for Albert "Ab" Walker, life-time chum of Reynolds, who was indicted jointly with her

After the hearing her father and brother, Alfred Holman Jr., brought her to the hotel here, a distance of seven miles They refused to say where she had been hiding before her surrender. Miss Holman herself issued a brief statement through her attorneys in which she asked to be left alone.

LANCASTER ON WITNESS STAND

Murder Defendant Reveals Relations with Clark Before Latter's Death.

TELLS ROMANCE DETAILS

Alleged Slayer Relates Tale of Happenings in Last Several Years.

By The Associated Press

MIAMI, Fla Aug. 9—Captain W N Lancaster testified in his murder trial today that Haden Clarke had promised him before he left on a business trip to the west that he would care for Mrs J. M. Keith-Miller "so that I would remember his friendship"

The state charges Lancaster shot Clarke to death after the latter had replaced him in the affections of Mrs Keith-Miller, his Australian flying partner

Lancaster said Clarke made the promise after he had cautioned Clarke to keep Mrs Keith-Miller from drinking too heavily during his absence

"I spoke confidentially to Haden before I left about my love for Mrs Keith-Miller and urged him to take care of her," the witness continued

Lancaster told how his admiration for Mrs Keith-Miller bloomed to love during their London to Australia flight in 1927 28

Mrs Keith Miller testified yesterday that she no longer loved the memory of Clarke who replaced Lancaster in her affections, and that she no longer loved Lancaster although she was intensely fond of him

Mrs Keith-Miller, testifying yesterday, left the stand in a state of hysteria after saying she had ceased to love the memory of Haden Clarke because he had told her many falsehoods

She declared she would die for Lancaster and he for her and that even though she had always thought she would marry him should he and his wife in England be divorced she no longer loved him

Lancaster, who testified for a time yesterday recited the story of his financial ups and downs since he and Mrs Keith-Miller inaugurated their flying partnership in a London Australia flight in 1927,

Internationally famous, Lancaster today expected aid in the shape of character testimony from other noted aviators Clyde Pangborn, round-the-world flier, and Rex F Gilmartin of New York, were listed as defense witnesses They were coming from New York by air.

JAPS IRRITATED BY STIMSON'S ADDRESS

Tokio Government Asks Complete Report on Secretary's Talk in New York.

By The Associated Press

Irritation in Tokyo and satisfaction in Geneva apparently were today's reactions to the address in New York last night of Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson, on the Briand Kellogg pact

Secretary Stimson speaking before the council on foreign relations, cited events in the far east last winter as indicating how effectively the pact may be employed in putting a peaceful end to hostilities by mobilizing public opinion against them

He recalled that the assembly of the League of Nations supported the United States in an assertion that it would not recognize any situation, treaty or agreement brought about by means contrary to the covenant and obligations of the pact of Paris and made the remark:

"Moral disapproval, when it becomes the disapproval of the whole world, takes on a significance hitherto unknown in international law."

Asks for Report

In Tokyo today, the Japanese foreign office asked its embassy in Washington to send a detailed report of Secretary Stimson's speech.

Dispatches stated Japanese officials interpreted Secretary Stimson's remarks as an implication that Japan was the aggressor in Manchuria, an aggressor against whom the whole world was organized and mobilized as never before.

In Geneva satisfaction was expressed in League of Nations circles over what was described as "a guarantee that in any future call for action by the league the attitude of the United States will be known in advance and possible cause for embarrassment removed"

Stimson's comments on the cooperation between his government and the league in the Sino-Japanese situation were interpreted as a basis for cordial, though independent, cooperation by the American government with the league

In Washington the speech was accepted as pointing the way to

ROOSEVELT TO HEAR WALKER

Hearing of New York Mayor Before Governor To Be Held Thursday.

COMPLEXION IS NATIONAL

Executive Anxious To Clear Up Matter Before Coming to Columbus Aug. 20.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Aug 9 — Mayor Walker is going up the Hudson to Albany Thursday to fight for his political life

Governor Roosevelt, against whose nomination for the presidency Mayor Walker voted at Chicago to the last, will be his judge.

The final official word before the hearing begins was before the governor today—a brief sub-rebuttal filed by the mayor last night. It assails the attack upon him by Samuel Seabury as "blatant hypocrisy"

Voluminous "conclusions" and charges are on file with Governor Roosevelt They attack Walker's behavior over a period of years as mayor of New York and call upon the governor to remove him from office.

Has National Flavor

In essence, the Mayor Walker case is a local affair It has been given national political significance, however, by the mayor's wide personal popularity and by the Tammany ties that bind it to the national political picture

The mayor, in his sur-rebuttal made mention of Tammany, though not by name He referred to it as "the political organization of which I am a member."

The mayor asked that he be given a "trial" rather than a hearing Governor Roosevelt had not indicated today what answer he would make to this request. There were several circumstances, however, which led to the belief that he would follow his original plan of hearing, one of them, his desire to get the case settled as quickly as possible, preferably before he opens his campaign for the presidency formally at Columbus, O. Aug 20.

The mayor's latest brief was short, compared with his 27,000 word original answer to the charges. It concluded with the statement that "each and every" charge of Seabury "insofar as they may reflect upon any alleged misfeasance, malfeasance, [illegible] or any other misconduct by me as mayor of the City of New York, is hereby specifically denied."

Will Not Go Alone

The mayor is not planning to go to Albany alone. [illegible]

LINDY RANSOM MONEY FOUND

Number of Bills in Canadian Bank Are Traced to Hampton, Va.

By The Associated Press

HALIFAX, N. S., Aug. 9—Three twenty-dollar bills, two tens and two fives, were definitely identified by police today as bearing serial numbers corresponding to those on ransom money paid in the Lindbergh kidnaping case.

Police said they did not know whether the plate numbers, a small series in the right hand corner of the bills, correspond to those on the $50,000 in bills thrown over a cemetery hedge in the Bronx, by Dr. John F. Condon, on April 2, a month and a day after the Lindbergh baby was kidnaped.

The bills were deposited by Miss Carrie Anderson, a nurse of Hampton, Va., at the bank of Nova Scotia at Albert, N. B., last week. Bank officials turned them over to the Royal Canadian mounted police at Moncton.

Officials there wired their information to Ottawa Sunday night. Yesterday afternoon General McBrien, head of the mounted police, said he was investigating.

A statement attributed to police at Moncton that plate numbers of the bills differed from those on the ransom money was rejected today when it was admitted the figures were not available for checking.

Miss Anderson was in Moncton today. [illegible]

PROJECT WILL COST $25,000

Work Will Be Started Next Month; Council Passes Ordinance at Meeting.

MARION WILL PAY $7,000

Money Will Be Taken from Gas Tax: Will Give Work to Unemployed.

Resurfacing of East Center street was authorized last night by city council

Service Director E. O. Uncapher was instructed to enter into a contract with the state highway department for the resurfacing of the street from Baker street to the east line of Kensington place, a distance of approximately one and one quarter miles

The action brought to a close series of conferences the last six months between Mayor W. C. Phillians, Service Director E. O. Uncaher and other city officials and officials of the highway department in arranging for state aid in improving the street,

City to Pay $7,000

Under an agreement reached by the city and the state department, Service Director Uncapher said, the city will pay $7,000 of the total cost of the improvement which it is estimated will be in the neighborhood of $25,000 The city's portion of the cost will be paid from the gasoline tax and automobile license fund.

The agreement also provided, the service director said, for the city to remove the asphalt and street car rails from Grand avenue to Kensington place and in return the state highway department agreed to resurface the entire street from Baker to Kensington place, giving the street a uniform surface.

Disposition of the street car rails from Baker street to Grand avenue has not been definitely decided upon, according to the service director. If they are not removed the rails will be covered with the paving material, followed the method used when South Main street was resurfaced from Columbia street to the Marion cemetery.

Material Not Decided

While the nature of the material to be used in resurfacing the street has not been definitely determined, it is thought it will be selected from what the state highway department term T-4 specification, which include mixtures similar to that used on the South Main street improvement.

The city, the service director said, will not be required to pay its share of the cost before January, thereby making it possible for the service department to continue its street repair program. Work of removing the rails and asphalt from Grand avenue east, will be done chiefly by relief labor. The service director also said he was planning to use the asphalt on unimproved streets.

An effort made by city officials to include in the agreement the privilege of the city to provide all of the labor and the state the material, failed when the state officials explained that because of the amount of money involved, the law required that the work be let by contract.

To Start in September

It is expected the work will be started early in September. In the meantime, the service director said, he was considering the plan of [illegible]

Wheat Prices Close Two Cents Under Finish of Monday.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Aug 9—Belief that 9 cents quick advance had made reactions inevitable led to general profit taking and a decline of about 2 cents in wheat today.

Declines in stocks and cotton had some bearish effect. Export demand for wheat improved as a result of recessions in price, and there were intimations of reduced crop estimates in Canada owing to heat, drouth and premature ripening.

Wheat closed unsettled, 1⅝@1¾ under yesterday's finish, corn ⅞@1¼ down, ¾@1 off, and provisions varying from 12 cents decline to a rise of 5 cents

WHAT IS GARBAGE? COURT WILL DECIDE

Attorneys Will Contend 'Food' Was Being Hauled for Use at Home.

Just what constitutes garbage or at just what stage food becomes garbage will be questions on which attorney for Vito Synarello will base their case when their client is arraigned in municipal court the latter part of the week on a charge of gathering garbage without a permit.

Synarello was arrested last Tuesday and a patrolman charged him with driving a horse and wagon loaded with garbage. He was later released on his own recognizance for a hearing Saturday. The case was continued although no date was fixed.

Attorneys Hector Young and Homer Johnson, who will represent Synarello, it is said at the city hall today, will base their case on the grounds that what Synarello was hauling was not garbage but was food stuffs he was taking home for the purpose of eating. What spoiled before it could be consumed, would be fed to his pigs, Synarello will contend.

Ten Enforcement Districts Created in State To Promote Greater Efficiency.

The division of Ohio into 10 enforcement districts by E. C Matthews, prohibition commissioner, has placed Marion and six other counties in district No. 4 in charge of Robert N. Landfair and M. C. McDougal, enforcement officers, according to an Associated Press story from Columbus today.

The 10 districts were created by Matthews to promote greater efficiency with a reduced force, he said. Previously there were six larger districts with inspectors to send from place to place. Now the staff is limited to 18 enforcement officers and two tax inspectors.

With Marion county in district No. 4 are Wyandot, Crawford, Morrow, Knox, Ashland and Richland counties.

Delaware and Union counties are part of district No. 5 in charge of Earl Cullison, O. E. Daniels and M. A. Deerwester. Hardin county is in district No. 2 in charge of Wayne Preston.

PENSION COMMITTEE TO BE FORMED HERE

Plan To Circulate Petition To Initiate Law Into Ohio Legislature.

Steps are under way to organize a Marion county old age pension committee to circulate petitions to initiate an old age pension law for Ohio, it was announced today by James L. Kirby, chairman of a pension committee of Buckeye Aerie, No 337, Fraternal Order of Eagles.

Petitions will be placed in circulation Aug 15, Kirby said. It is hoped that the 90,000 signatures, needed in Ohio to present the proposed legislation before the state assembly, can be obtained by Sept. 15, he said

Kirby and Fred Eaton, representing the Federation of Labor, attended a recent conference in Columbus attended by representatives of the Ohio Fraternal Order of Eagles and the Ohio State Federation of Labor, two of the organizations which are sponsoring plans to circulate petitions.

The proposed pension law, Kirby said, provides for maximum pensions of $300 a year for needy Ohioans with no other means of support, provided they are 65 years of age or over and have been citizens of the United States and the state for 15 years. Funeral expenses not exceeding $100 also are provided for in the law, he said

AUTO SPEED IN PARKS CUT

Other Changes Made in Traffic Code by Council: Penalties Provided.

Complaints of speeding through the city parks resulted in the adoption of an ordinance by city council last night restricting the speed of automobiles through parks to 20 miles an hour and fixing a penalty of not more than $25 for the first offense and not less than $25 or more than $100 for any subsequent offenses.

The ordinance also increased the speed permitted in the city from 15 to 20 miles an hour in the closely built up section and from 25 to 35 miles an hour in the residential district, to meet the regulations fixed by the state.

The ordinance also fixed a speed of 15 miles an hour from a distance of 200 feet each side of a school building between 8 a. m. and 4 p. m. The same penalty is provided for any violation of the sections of the ordinance.

SCOUT TROOP ACTS TO BOLSTER FUNDS

Area Organization Faces Shortage of Funds; Group Plans Social

An ice cream social to raise money to help finance the Boy Scout organization for the balance of the year has been announced by Dr. V. C. Kissell, scoutmaster of Troop 3. The social will be given Friday night by Troop 3 on the lawn at the Schaffner-Queen funeral home on East Center street.

Failure of the Marion Community fund to reach the goal this spring has reduced the money available for operating the Boy Scout organization, Dr. Kissel said, to a point where unless some help is obtained from the outside it may become necessary to suspend activities in the Harding area.

This, he said, would not only result in the loss to the organization of Scout Executive Arthur Brooks, whose salary is paid from the money obtained from the fund, but might result in the loss to the area of Camp John A. Owens. The deed for the camp site presented to the area by Clifford Owens, Dr. Kissel said, carries the stipulation that in event the organization should cease to function the land would revert back to the original owner.

The other troops are expected to follow the lead of Troop 3 in raising money for the organization.

MEMBERS OF CHINESE CABINET QUIT POSTS

Crisis Precipitated as Entire Nanking Government Decides To Resign.

By The Associated Press

SHANGHAI, Aug. 9—The entire cabinet of the Nanking government resigned this afternoon.

Members of the cabinet in Shanghai sent a joint telegram to Nanking announcing their decision. Members in Nanking joined in this action.

The crisis which upset the government resulted from failure of efforts to induce Wang Ching-Wei to withdraw his resignation as premier.

Wang, president of the executive yuan and as such virtual prime minister, resigned on Saturday.

That in itself was a dramatic and unexpected development. He stepped out because of his dissatisfaction with the "passive policy" of the northern military authorities with respect to Manchuria.

To make matters still more complicated, word from Nanking said the government had received a telegram from Chiang Kai-Shek, former president and now virtually commander in chief of the army and navy, in which he threatened to resign also unless Wang Ching Wei reconsidered and consented to remain as premier.

Chang Hsiao-Liang, the young Peiping war lord, who submitted his resignation yesterday as a result of Wang's criticism, was reported today to be determined to relinquish his authority.

Mrs. Theodore Horn, wife of a miner employed at the Lick Run mine, and daughter of Mender, has been living with her parents. She had been using the automobile each day to visit her husband who has been living at the mine. ### Bettman Urges "Hard Work"

By The Associated Press

PAINESVILLE, O., Aug. 9—Ohio Republicans were urged by a leading candidate of the party today to "work hard" for success in the November elections, because this is a "pivotal" state.

The exhortation came from Attorney General Gilbert Bettman, candidate for United States senator, here yesterday as a member of the Republican caravan now touring the state to organize party workers.

About 350 leaders from Cuyahoga, Lake, Lorain, Medina, Summit, Portage, Mahoning, Trumbull, Ashtabula and Geauga counties heard Bettman, David S. Ingalls, Republican nominee for governor, and several other candidates.

Ingalls, in a two-minute speech, told the meeting he was "honestly sure we're going to win and that we're going to win and that we're going to make Ohio the greatest Republican state in the nation."

The caravan moved on today to Granville and Marion. It will visit Fremont and Lima Wednesday; Dayton and Cincinnati Thursday; and Portsmouth and Columbus Friday.

WORKS ON PROGRAM FOR OHIO ASSEMBLY

Governor Seeking To Eliminate Differences Over Proposed Salary Cuts.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 9—Gov. George White's four-point program for the special session of the Ohio legislature, tentatively scheduled for next month, is in the course of preparation.

At a meeting which lasted for several hours last night, the governor and his cabinet went over the entire program.

The backbone of the special meeting undoubtedly will be formed around the proposal of both the governor's economy committee and the senate salary committee to cut the pay of state employes.

Although the governor's committee and that of the legislature are now far apart, Howard Bevis, finance director, said he thought that before the measure is presented, the two committees will reach an agreement. The governor's committee proposes to reduce salaries 5-10-15 per cent while the legislative committee wants to cut them 5 and 10 per cent with an extra 2½ per cent cut on each $1,000 above $2,000. The governor's proposal provides a five per cent reduction up to $1,000; 10 per cent over $1,000 and up to $5,000, and 15 per cent over that amount.

Other proposals which the governor will present include the wiping out of road assessments against abutting property; providing ways for building and loan banks to borrow from the home loan bank and easier methods for state political subdivisions to borrow from the reconstruction corporation.

No date has been set for the assembly to meet and the governor proposes to confine their efforts to these proposals. Members of the executive's cabinet hope to confine the session to two or three days.

WET AND DRY FIGHT FACED IN KENTUCKY

Primary Lines Up Parties on Opposite Sides of Prohibition Fence.

By The Associated Press

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Aug. 9—Prospects of a wet and dry fight in November's congressional election were increased today as primary returns were received from approximately half of Kentucky's precincts.

Only one of the 27 Democratic candidates for the nine state-at-large nominations supported prohibition, N. Gray Rochester, and he was apparently badly beaten in the primary.

Only three of the 26 Republican candidates favored repeal of the Eighteenth amendment, and they also had little chance for nomination. They were Adolph Graves, J. B. Wise and George L. Phillips.

All other Democratic candidates supported the Democratic repeal plank in their campaigns, and the other Republican candidates either supported prohibition or said they endorsed their party's national platform.

U. S. Senator Alben W. Barkley appeared certain of renomination.

BALTIMORE, Md., Aug. 9—The Baltimore News said today that Libby Holman Reynolds, Broadway torch singer, "collapsed in her Maryland hideaway when she learned of the indictment charging her with the murder of her youthful husband, Smith Reynolds."

It quotes Otto, the cook-guardian at Cakington, the Harford county estate of Leonard Richards Jr., of Wilmington, Del., where Mrs. Reynolds spent three weeks' as saying she was not told of the indictment until last Friday, the day after it was returned in Winston-Salem, N. C.

"I thought at first she would faint," Otto is quoted as saying. "Then she began to scream and cry and run around the house, first in one room and then another. The doctor from New York was here and he had a hard time to control her.

"Finally she collapsed and he managed to calm her down and put her to bed. At first she seemed terribly worried, but later seemed to feel better."

the American government's policy in the far east—apparently an open door policy.

The heavy emphasis by Secretary Stimson last night upon the Kellogg-Briand pact as an instrument of peace was regarded in Washington today as a definite bid for continued support by the little nations of Europe of the American policy in the Far East.

Question Not Settled

There are surface indications that the Far eastern question will climb above the international horizon again within the next few months. The forthcoming report to the League of Nations by the special commission it sent to investigate the Sino-Japanese dispute over Manchuria, is enough to insure this.

Although there has been no intimation of the nature of this report, speculation as arisen in unofficial quarters of what Japan might do if it should be unfavorable to her. Some Oriental and European newspapers have discussed the possibility that she might withdraw from the League of Nations.

The hope of averting future wars was one of the two interests that lay behind the actions of the United States in Manchuria. Along with this was the desire to retain the commercial standing of this country in the Far East.

Because of its position as a promoter of the Kellogg-Briand pact, the United States had to be a leader in the move to guard against its possible infraction.

In expressing the view that the Kellogg-Briand treaty was more than a simple declaration against war, but that it carried definite obligations and privileges, the secretary in his New York speech also stressed the necessity for consultation among the nations before any important diplomatic step is taken.

There have been expressions in some European quarters of fear that this nation might take some positive step without giving those governments an opportunity to consult with it beforehand.

DEATH LEAVES MAJOR PARTY POST VACANT

James Francis Burke, General Republican Counsel, Dies in Washington.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9—The death last night of James Francis Burke of Pittsburgh, general counsel of the Republican national committee, leaves a major vacancy to be filled in the previously nearly completed party organization.

The 65-year-old committee officer died only a few hours after he had conferred twice with President Hoover. In announcing his death, the White House said that the President noticed Burke appeared ill, and directed his physician, Dr. Joel T. Boone, to attend him.

Removed to the hospital at Dr. Boone's orders Burke died before midnight. The cause of death was given as coronary thrombosis.

He had planned to join Mrs Burke and sail from New York today for Europe.

Burke was born in Petroleum Center, Venango county, Pennsylvania Oct. 21, 1867. He represented the United States in the parliamentary peace conference in Brussels in 1905.

He was appointed to codify the United States navigation laws, and represented the thirty-first Pennsylvania district in congress, becoming Republican whip. He also prepared the constitution of the chamber of commerce of the United States and was its first counsel at Washington.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Aug. 9—Conferences at which arrangements will be made to study the United States army engineers' adverse report on the Beaver-Mahoning-Shenango waterway were to get under way at Pittsburgh today between Congressman John G. Cooper of Ohio, T. J. Bray, president of the waterway association and Major D. W. D. Styer, district army engineer.

Arrangements are to be made to have three Youngstown engineers examine the adverse finding, and report to the association as to a possible appeal.

The army engineers held that the three rivers' physical characteristics made a waterway impracticable.

Sale of Refunding Bonds Ordered by City Council

Approval for $78,000 Issue Given by State; Amount Needed To Make Up Deficit Faced by Bond Retirement Fund; Garbage Department Reduces Operating Cost.

The second step to issue $78,000 of refunding bonds to retire bonds coming due Sept. 1 was taken by city council last night when an ordinance authorizing the sale of the bonds was adopted.

The action of council followed the receipt of a communication from the bureau of inspection and supervision of public offices at Columbus granting the city permission to issue the bonds. The life of the bonds were fixed at nine years by the bureau, the first to fall due April 1, 1934 and the last Oct. 1, 1941.

The $78,000 will make up the difference between what the city will receive from the county for retiring bonds and the amount needed.

$177,114.94 Needed

According to figures of City Auditor J. L. Landes, there will fall due on Sept. 1 $140,500 in bonds which, with $36,614.94 in interest, will bring the total amount needed to $177,114.94. The city will receive from the county, according to an estimate from County Auditor Carl Thomas, a total of $92,000 for the retirement of bonds.

A motion commending Service Director E. O. Uncapher for his efficiency in operating the garbage collection department was adopted when a report for July showed that the department had reduced its operating expenses $1,179.71 compared with the same month last year.

The report also showed a decrease in receipts of $725.56. Receipts for July 1931, were $7,197.06 and for July, 1932 as $6,761.50. Expenditures for July of last year were $6,922.46 and last month $5,744.15.

Work Provided

A report of the activities of the service department for July showed that the department had provided 277 days of work for grocery orders and 52 days of work for pay for the city's unemployed during the month.

Included in the activities, according to the report, was the relaying of 10,000 feet of sidewalk which offered a menace to pedestrians, the replacing of 216 feet of curb on Kensington place and the use of 277 tons of amiesite in patching streets.

The report of Mayor W. C. Phillians for July showed $8.50 collected for building permits, $80 for licenses and $4.75 for registrations.

The average degree of hardness of the city water for seven days from July 26 to August 7, was given as 109, in a report by City Chemist Floyd Browne. The degree of hardness varied from 103 on July 26 to 119 on Aug. 5.

A petition containing the signatures of 22 property owners in Oakland Heights seeking additional street lights and which has been in the hands of the light committee of council for the last several weeks was returned to council last night with the approval of the committee who added, however, that the lights should not be installed until the financial condition of the city permits.

My Beauty Hint

BY EVELYN KNAPP

AFTER a hard day s work of several hours of nervous tension one s face first shows the strain. Either the muscles about the mouth tighten up or they droop.

Here is my secret for counteracting that condition. I first cleanse my face with good cream, remove it with a soft cloth and then apply a greaseless cream.

Then lying in a restful position I stroke gently the tired muscles of my face and placing the index finger at the upper center of my lip and the thumb and middle finger toward the center of the nose.

The result is a healthy happy mouth.

LADY DRUMMOND HAYS' article on Russia s airplane program should be sent to everybody in our government and to all financiers of importance. Some of them do not like to think about paying for the world s biggest air fleet forgetting that there is no cheaper defense. But they would pay rather than admit that Russia rules the air.

Lady Hay who has flown around the world and knows airplanes believes after visiting Moscow that Russia firmly intends to surpass the French air fleet now greatest in the world.

The Russians announce themselves prepared already to dispose by air bombardment of Japan s floating war fleet should Japan attack Vladivostok. Two thousand mechanics are manufacturing planes for Russia as rapidly as possible.

The statement that Russia s aircraft industry is already greater than that of the United States may be exaggerated but it calls for attention.

ONE MORE MAN with "a plan" is a well meaning Austrian baron Karl Ferdinand Finty. He plans to open his ancient castle Schallaburg on the wide swift-flowing Danube as a haven for the world s great minds. There exchanging ideas over their pipes far from the disturbing crowd the great minds will solve all the world s problems and do away with its ills.

They will do nothing of the kind, of course. That will be done, gradually by men that were little boys that grew up on ordinary farms or little boys that grew up in the slums and realize what human suffering means. It will be done by scientists working in their laboratories, increasing man's power, and by the deft, ... power of the masses, ... throwing off injustice with ... powerful gesture, as in the ... revolution, and more ... the Russian revolution.

A Fact About Law.

Stand-pat prohibitionists will do well to consider this state's prohibition commissioner's statement about slow failure of prohibition enforcement. Courts and the public in general are losing interest in prohibition enforcement, he says. Asked if prohibition could be enforced, he replied to state committees investigating salary reductions and economy that enforcement depended on the public's attitude, now indifferent or actively opposed to enforcement.

The authority imposing the sanction of law is the direct agency of the people in a system of popular government—the state. Regardless of defects in the operation of a representative democracy, the state can not do otherwise than reflect the attitude of the people. When that attitude becomes indifferent or hostile to a degree which convinces the people's administrators that enforcement is no longer desired those same administrators can not be blamed for respecting the source of authority rather than the letter of the law.

For a contrast to the declining status of prohibition consider a law which affects every day millions of Ohio people, the law which says that a motorist shall stop at a red light. Without supervision and with only the inevitable exceptions motorists obey this law. Why? Because an overwhelming majority of them recognize the protection it affords them. If anything were to happen to change the opinion of the majority, a traffic signal soon would become as meaningless as the prohibition law has become to a large proportion of the population.

Social action concerning prohibition has become a matter of adjustment, not stubborn retention of a sanction no longer recognized by a working majority. Administrators can not be censured for failing to observe the letter of the law when they have been informed definitely by public opinion that it does not have faith in the law.

Cave-Man At Large.

Lorain county's cave-man hunt shows what can happen when Henry Ford's back-to-the-land idea is taken too literally. It should be a warning to all those frustrated souls who suggest recourse to a cabin in the deep woods and a diet of wild things as the solution of their difficulties in a tough world.

Civilization is a relentless pursuer and woe to him who tries to escape it by determined flight down a leafy glade. If he possesses the fiber to keep him alive without assistance from the milkman, the butcher and the standardized product he only assures himself rough treatment when civilization's posses track him down.

He becomes a far greater menace than his cave-man brother of the dance halls and parlor sofas, even though his social offense be nothing greater than trapping out of season. Farmers' wives entertain no yearning to meet up with him in the shadowy aisles of their sweetcorn patches; no, indeed. They won't rest until the men folks have gone forth with newly cleaned shotguns to rid the country of such a loathsome creature.

That robust fellow, Tarzan of the Apes, who recently gave Johnny Weismuller a boost into the lower terrace of moving picture fame by pulling out all stops on the organic ohs and ahs of engloomed and thrilled audiences from east coast to west would find poor hunting in Lorain county. There would be not even one buxom heroine for him to swing to his broad back and carry through the trees away from the sharp claws of Saber, the tiger. Let him try! He would soon wish that he was dealing with Saber instead of the manicured, screaming fury on his back. And then the posses would arrive to put him back into his hated city clothes and to establish him once more under the stereotyped rules of civilization. "How inconsistent," he would mutter. "Here I've been thinking all the time that people had a secret passion for this sort of thing."

Where Will It Lead?

A whispered speculation on probable effects of the momentous imperial conference in Ottawa concerns further expatriation of American capital. There has been a pronounced drift of industrial enterprise to Canada, particularly since the dominion demonstrated that Americans weren't the only people who could build tariff barriers. One hundred and fifty American branch factories were established in Canada in 1930 and 1931.

One fact demands attention above all others when the probable effect of this policy of American capital is being considered. An American factory abroad is in competition with factories of the same kind at home which manufacture the same product. A steel mill in Toronto takes business away from a steel mill in Pittsburgh. A tractor factory in Ireland takes away business from a tractor factory in Michigan. A breakfast food factory in Winnipeg takes away business from the same kind of a factory in Battle Creek.

Because transportation costs are less, because, in most cases, labor is cheaper and because factories established inside tariff barriers can sell cheaper and without encountering discrimination against foreign products, the competition they give American exporters of the same type of product is deadly. The policy, if developed fully, would mean virtual elimination of profitable foreign trade. "Expatriated capital" is an extraordinarily descriptive name for the financial basis of this comparatively recent policy of American manufacturers.

Where will it lead? No one knows; not even the capitalists responsible for it. Prior to the depression many of them explained that expansion was being financed out of surplus. Now their explanations are different. They are being driven abroad by necessity. For instance, a metal manufacturer who establishes a branch factory in Canada is able to sell at an advantage, not alone to Canadians, but to all with whom Canada does business. They may be able to get into England by the back door if the Ottawa conference succeeds in working out a system of empire trade. It may mean that Americans will have to become their own consumers.

East and West.

A few weeks ago when easterners read that western stockmen were marketing their hogs and cattle with a smile of satisfaction at the prices they were receiving many facial muscles that hadn't produced a smile since 1929 started to get restless. At the end of last week with stocks making strange motions in an upward direction and ticker tape running minutes behind the onrush of a definitely bullish movement those muscles went into play. The stock market had come to life. Transactions Saturday amounted to 2,700,000 shares, the heaviest Saturday turnover since the spring of 1930.

All the easterners weren't smiling, of course. In the whole picture of economic activity the stock market is merely a detail, just as higher livestock prices are only details. Livestock prices and the stock market are indicators—good ones. Those affected directly by their favorable movement, however, are not many. A vast majority has nothing more tangible to grasp than a renewal of hope; millions do not even have that.

In consequence of this, cautious Americans will continue to focus one eye on the dark side. The fury of the low-hanging clouds of depression may be spent, but there are still grave possibilities of danger, not to mention the tremendous task of cleaning up the wreckage left in the wake of the storm. There is far more satisfaction to be gained from realization of moderate hope than from the disappointment of hope too immoderate to be realized in fact.

New Hero.

Track coaches are studying the running form of a little man from Pine Bluff, Ark.—Bill Carr, master of the quarter mile and the 400 meter. When candidates go to work next fall and when they reach the peak of their form next spring for the important meets they will be thinking and dreaming about being as good some day as the man who ran 400 meters in 46.2 seconds at the Olympic games in Los Angeles.

One need never have wriggled his toes into a pair of pushers or crouched at the starting line to appreciate the perfection of World Champion Carr's form. One need have no knowledge at all of track tradition to marvel at the superhuman speed of a man who can run 400 meters in just a little more than the time required by a good sprinter to do four 100-meters. Measure out a meter (39.37 inches). Multiply it by 8.7 times to get an approximation of the distance that can be covered in one second for more than 46 consecutive seconds by a great runner. Embellish amazement, then, with admiration for the courage of a man who could come from behind Ben Eastman, himself a ruler of world records in the 400-meter event, to snatch a new record from Eastman's flying feet and beat him to the finish by yards.

Carr's triumph at Los Angeles is a triumph for all coaches who have labored long with good, bad and indifferent material to produce from year to year the world's best sprinters. Perhaps it doesn't matter a great deal in the business of getting things done that they have been eminently successful—no more than it matters that people take pride in the perfection of a painter's work or the flawless notes of a singer. Bill Carr, from Pine Bluff, Arkansas, represents probably man's closest approach to perfection in one event of one branch of athletics. He is a new hero for people interested in the development of the human body.

Comment of the Press

OLD DOGS CAN LEARN NEW TRICKS.

"You can't teach an old dog new tricks," says the adage. It is taken to mean that education is for the young; that the middle-aged and the old are no longer capable of study.

Like many other wise old proverbs, this one is wrong, too. A University of Minnesota professor, Dr. Herbert Sorenson, decided to investigate. He obtained some surprising results.

Dr. Sorenson found that the older men and women in the extension classes of his university made better average scores than the younger students of the regular classes.

In addition he found that the best scores in college aptitude and intelligence were made by the men between 50 and 54 years of age and the women between 60 and 64.

Many of the "hewers of wood" and "drawers of water" who take extension courses, Dr. Sorenson tells us, "have as much aptitude for university work as members of the professions."

Valuable human material goes to waste because many, even in America, haven't the leisure for more education.—Philadelphia Record.

FORMS OF TAXATION.

Deprivation of licenses of drunken drivers will diminish the number of accidents on the highways. It is doing that, the stupid drinkers who drive will be reduced to a negligible number in time if the laws are enforced, but accidents will by no means be eliminated.

By far the greatest number of careless drivers are cold sober, or, at any rate, alcohol is no factor in their intoxication.

An automobile loaded with women and children, one of them driving it, turns turtle and two or three persons are quite as dead as though the Demon Rum had assailed them.

One is driving around an abrupt curve. The horn is sounded warningly. Then one meets a small truck in which twenty girls are riding. They are members of a girls' camp in bathing suits, returning from the river nearby. The truck sounds no warning and it is a sharp curve. A collision might have caused a dozen deaths.

Most drivers are moderately prudent, and few, very few, are as prudent and watchful as the character of the machine and the road demand. In most drivers is a large degree of indifference to accident, to mayhem, to death. The automobile impairs the sense of responsibility, especially in young people, infinitely more than alcohol does—for alcohol affects comparatively few, while virtually all those fifteen years old and over are automobile addicts.

Hundreds of thousands, or millions, of human lives in the United States are yet to be sacrificed before the judicious use of the automobile shall be learned and practiced.—Charleston News and Courier.

Daily Guide to Health

BY DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND.

Neglecting a Rupture Is Dangerous.

Hernia, or "rupture," as it is more commonly called, is frequently met by doctors and is an affliction that often is neglected. It is not a disease, but a defect due to mechanical weakness of certain parts of the body. This defect may be present at birth, or may be the result of severe muscular strain. It is often seen among workers who lift weights or use foot pressure.

The word hernia means "protrusion," and hernia is a protrusion of part of the abdominal contents between the muscles of the abdominal wall.

At birth there are three weak spots in the abdominal wall, located at what the doctors call the "inguinal," "femoral" and "umbilical" parts of the abdomen. These weaknesses may persist through life, or they may disappear. When the weakness persists in an individual whose occupation requires severe exertion, rupture is likely to occur. The danger is accentuated also by persistent coughing, as in chronic asthma and tuberculosis.

As time goes on the rupture grows larger and larger. There may be little pain and discomfort at first, but these develop when the protrusion is sufficiently large and when it interferes with the normal activities of the victim.

It is a grave mistake to neglect a rupture. There is always danger that a small loop of intestine may get caught and be seriously pinched, causing an obstruction of the bowel, or strangulation and death of a part of the intestine. When this condition arises an immediate operation is necessary, for delay may be fatal.

I am often asked whether a rupture can be cured by wearing a truss. It is the opinion of most physicians that wearing a truss weakens the natural resistance of the tissues and in many instances does more harm than good. In certain cases, where the general health is poor and the afflicted person is well on in years, a truss may be worn. This is advised for the prevention of strangulation.

In younger persons the rupture should be operated, for that is the only sure method of cure. The operation is rather simple and need not cause alarm, and in many instances is performed under a local anesthetic. In such cases coughing and pain are avoided.

Umbilical hernia, most commonly seen in infants and young children, occurs shortly after birth and is caused by a weakness of the muscles around the umbilicus. The wise parent never overlooks this condition but insists upon an early operation.

"Herniotomy," the operation for rupture, should not be dreaded. Many persons fear this operation, but in reality they should dread and fear a hernia which is not operated upon.

Neglected hernia lessens efficiency and is a potential danger.

Glimpses of the Past

TEN YEARS AGO.

It was Wednesday, Aug. 9, 1922.

M. Ernest Guy, former attache of the French high commission to America during the war, stated in an interview that he had a feeling of high admiration for America in attempting the great social experiment of prohibition.

Carmi A. Thompson continued to roll up a big lead over his opponents in the Republican race for the nomination for governor.

For the second time a proposition was defeated at the primaries for a $325,000 bond issue to be used for providing additional storm water sewers in the city.

An ice cream delivery wagon was damaged when a city street car jumped a switch near the old interurban station on State street. The wagon was owned by the Isaly Dairy Co. The horse was not injured.

Members of the Howitzer and Headquarters companies, Marion National guard units, entrained for the annual camping period at Camp Perry. Howitzer Company was commanded by Capt. G. V. Parchell and the Headquarters company by Lieut. John W. Mason.

Congressman R. Clint Cole of Findlay overwhelmingly defeated his two opponents, James R. Hopley of Bucyrus and Harry R. Redebaugh of Findlay in the primary election as the Republican candidate for congressman from the Eighth district. H. H. Hartman of Galion was leading Carl W. Smith of Kenton and Thomas C. Mahon of Kenton in a Democratic race.

The Marion Chamber of Commerce baseball team defeated the Kenton Chamber of Commerce team at Lincoln park by a score of 19-3. The Marion batteries were Young and Lindsay. The Kenton batteries were Steffin, Sickles and Rure and Rufe and Alexander.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the B. of L. F. and E. made plans for a picnic at Lincoln park at their regular meeting.

TWENTY YEARS AGO.

It was Friday, Aug. 9, 1912.

The trial of Clarence Darrow, noted Chicago criminal lawyer, on a charge of bribing a juror drew near the close in Los Angeles.

General Mena, Nicaraguan rebel leader, began a retreat when the United States government threatened to land 350 marines to protect American interests.

Marion residents were urged to attend a meeting of the Marion club to be addressed by H. O. Dunkle, general superintendent of the Erie railroad.

Michael Kell, well known resident of south of Marion, was in a critical condition after having suffered a stroke of paralysis.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford M. Howser left for a week-end visit in Sandusky.

Officer Bert Powell was much in the news as a result of his action in regulating horse and buggy traffic on the city streets. Powell was placed in the headlines when P. Malo threatened a police shake-up after the patrolman removed his horse and wagon, which had been parked in the wrong direction, to the city hitching rack.

R. J. Sees, proprietor of the Racket store, suffered a broken hip when he fell from his bicycle after running over a small dog on East Center street.

Arthur Smith, Ohio champion golfer, was in Marion to assist Dr. Carl W. Sawyer in laying out a golf course at White Oaks farm.

A thimble party was given Mrs. W. T. Jones and Miss Freda Rhodes at the Jones home on East Church street.

Robert White entertained a number of guests at his home on East Center street for the pleasure of the Misses Leta and Mary Alice Short of Portsmouth.

Three-Minute — Journeys —

BY TEMPLE MANNING

ISLE OF WIGHT.

When one speaks to a yachting enthusiast about Europe, he immediately recalls the one spot that really enthralls him, the one place that to him represents all that is good in Europe. That spot is, of course, Cowes, still the world's greatest yachting center. But to those of us whose interest in yachts is only perfunctory—since we haven't one of our own—Cowes immediately recalls the garden island of England, the beautiful Isle of Wight.

The Isle of Wight is but a short run from the mainland, the south coast of England. Motor ferries run from Portsmouth and there are regular ferries that also carry cars, running from Southampton directly to Cowes. And what a change from the mainland it is, one might be hundreds of miles away. It is an island of flowers. Walk along the cliff top at Shanklin when the hydrangeas are in bloom. You'll never forget the sight. Huge clumps of the flower in every shade of blue, lavender and white. Roses bloom everywhere, even the tiniest cottage has its glorious garden. The whole island is full of variety and contrast. Its sixty miles of coast show grand stretches of golden beach and tiny secluded coves and tall white cliffs.

When one is weary of boating and the coast, why then a brief run takes one inland to some of the most entrancing scenery this writer has ever seen. Leafy woods rustic cottages, whole villages that look as though they had been painted by a master artist, set in the soft shadows of the rolling downs. Hedgerow, meadow and field are a riot of color, flowers are everywhere. Carisbrooke, with the old fortress of Carisbrooke Castle, and Newport are the principal island towns and both are logical centers from which to tour the island. A nice run is from Carisbrooke out to Totland Bay with its golden sands, looking out over the Solent. From Newport one drives out to Bembridge, a quaint little harbor town that looks like something out of a movie.

There's plenty of fishing, golf, tennis, and even the bowling greens are well patronized. Yes it's a grand place this tiny little island, far more lovely and happy than the crowded continental capital.

New York Day by Day

BY O. O. McINTYRE.

New York, Aug. 9—New York is becoming amazingly "small-town" conscious. It used to be, everybody transplanted here, began immediately to look upon any part of the country west of Jersey City as some bleak, extramural region where mossbacks with sprouting mouth-straws, exclaim: "By Heck!"

Today, there is inclination to boast of originating in Kansas City, Omaha, Denver or far lesser villayets. Perhaps it is the civilizing influence of the radio and movie, but, whatever it is, there is no longer that supercilious attitude toward the aurland.

Smart specialty shops once bore such proprietorial names as "Rene of Paris" or "James of London," but now a pert tea room in the fashionable East 50's heralds its owner as, "Formerly of Waycross, Ga." A revenue raided speakeasy, known tautologically as "The L'Aiglon," in Harlem, reopens as "The Old Home Place."

What has been ballyhooed as the most sophisticated strip in the world—Broadway—has become immersed in country-town jakeyness. There is a Racket Store, a Busy Bee restaurant, a pool hall known at The Elite, and in front of two big hotels, chairs for guests are at the curb of evenings.

There is a taint, too, of Main Street's muddy shallows, even in the drug stores around Times Square. Soda fountains attract a city version of the rustic revellers who gather back younder. New York, without knowing it perhaps, is taking up the backwoods stuff at which it once chuckled.

* * *

At a stag dinner my table companion was a born New Yorker, professoring at a local college, and when I told a joke pillorying a native New Yorker, he observed testily: "I happen myself to be autochthonous." He wasn't going to put on the dog with me so I told him I was, too. He inquired if I were born in Manhattan or Brooklyn and I told him Plattsburg, Mo. And did I feel silly when I looked up that up-the-creek word next day.

* * *

Bob Sherwood, veteran circus clown, offers this as the origin of the mirimba band. Henry M. Stanley, returning from Africa, told of savages who played on hollow logs at his presentation to the African king, Mirimba. Barnum trained a group of Bowery negroes to play on xylophones and introduced them as "The Royal Mirimba Band."

Lillian Lorraine is living in retirement in an apartment on the west side. There is a feather of gray in her hair, but the beauty that once made her a "toast of the town" is astonishingly preserved. Her last public appearance was as a night club hostess. In her day she was the Rialto's most irresponsible madcap, although she never missed a performance. Perhaps the best remembrance of her, for many, is when she floated over the audience in a swing of roses on the old New York Roof. It was one of those sunbonnety innocences that, like a purge of clear rain, emphasized the peach-bloom of her cheeks and the starry-eyed candor she retains even after these 20 years.

* * *

I recall, too, a night watching Miss Lorraine in the Follies at the historic New Amsterdam. Never was I so emotionally entranced as at her entrance in a cathedral scene—a background of lancet windows and prisms of light as tender as colors of a pigeon's throat. Miss Lorraine, with tragic eyes upturned, and in sepulchral white moved to the footlights, her hands piously in supplication. The music was hauntingly melancholy. Still in the anesthesia of her mood, I dropped in afterward at Joel's, across the street, to ingurgitate a flagon of light Pilsener, and ponder. After a time, a hoydenish creature breezed in, called the barkeep by name and cried: "Sadie me out a setting of stingers. I feel like sowing a wild oat or so." It was Miss Lorraine, and I went straight home and tore up my letters to Santa Claus.

* * *

There was a powerful potion at Joel's, called the Blue Moon—Prussian blue in color and 40 cents the copy. Clyde von Maur, an artist—and where is he now?—and I went over from Hampton's magazine one pay-day, feeling flush, and downed two in quick succession. Two hours later, at the office we found the sheriff sealing the safe and we were professionally "at liberty." In the middle of a depression, incidentally. But we only laughed ha ha, walked lockstep down several flights to John McGraw's billiard parlors, strummed at cues in the racks as though they were harps and gave our hilarious imitation of the city slicker and the postmaster's daughter. Then on our way home we chinned every Broadway lamp-post. The Blue Moon was that sort.—Copyright 1932, McNaught Syndicate, Inc.

GOOD SPORT LOVERS.

Love-sickness is an old-fashioned disease, which still may be found, here and there—but there is nothing chronic about it, nowadays.

One reason those charming foreigners are so fascinating is because that little accent they have, somehow, always gives a woman the impression that they are talking "baby-talk" to her.

Judging by all the advice girls receive on how to "choose" a husband, you'd fancy that the "choice" was as ample and varied as the dishes at a cafeteria instead of as limited as a table d'hote menu.

Oh, why should the spirit of the summer Lothario be proud? It is no feat to fool one woman after another—the feat is to go on fooling the same woman, forever.

Sometimes, a man actually enjoys making love to the right sort of woman and eating the things that are good for him; but they don't give him half the kick that they would if they were labeled "Dangerous" or "Verboten."

Your worst enemy may tell everybody that she suspects you are a lot older than you look or will admit, but it's your dear old chum who knows that you are and whispers that she can prove it.

A "good sport" is one who knows how to win gracefully, and how to lose with a smile and no hard feeling—whether at bridge, golf, in a quarrel or in a summer love affair. A good sport is a thoroughbred!

* * *

Nothing so insults a girl's vanity as to discover that the man who doesn't come around any more has fallen for some colorless little thing, no prettier and no younger than she is.

No man's vanity need to be inflated by these easy summer conquests—there is always so much extra parking space in a girl's heart, at this time of year.—Copyright, 1932, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Daily Talk to Parents

BY ALICE JUDSON PEALE

THE HATED BATH.

For a reason never brought to light, little three-year-old Martha began to hate her evening bath. Every day as the time for the bath drew near there were protests, tears and finally the bath was given by main force.

Both Martha and her mother had come to dread the daily struggle, when Martha went to visit at the home of her aunt.

When it came time for the painful business of bathing, Martha volunteered that although she might take "a little bit of a bath" she certainly wasn't going to have her head washed.

When, somewhat fearfully, she was seated in the tub, her aunt gave her a rubber doll and suggested that it needed to be bathed, too. With the beginning of a smile, Martha applied washcloth and soap, and then permitted herself without complaint, to be washed too.

Next the rubber doll's head was thoroughly soaped and rinsed and although there were a few more tears, Martha's head was submitted to the same process.

A mirror hung so that Martha could see herself, and first Auntie twisted her lathered hair into a fine pair of horns, then into a rooster's comb, and finally into a single sharp point quite like an elf. So enchanted was Martha at these metamorphoses that she forgot all her objections to head washing.

Thereafter there was no more trouble about bathing. The rubber doll had served as a companion in misery and as an object through which the child could do to another what she herself had to suffer—a fine relief for the emotional tension in two ways. The play with the soapy hair amused and distracted her, and the fears, whatever they had been, were side-tracked and forgotten.

Highlights of Ohio History

BY J. H. GALBRAITH

OLD INDIAN NAMES.

Trivial incidents and circumstances led Ohio's early settlers frequently to attach the most ridiculous names to geographical features.

There is a small stream in the southwestern part of Carroll county which the Indians called Kenoten creek. Like most Indian names, it had a musical sound but the settlers changed it to "Cork Leg creek" because when they arrived there a one-legged Indian had his cabin near the stream.

Further, the settlers applied to an important tributary of the Kenoten the ridiculous name of Dining Fork—the idea occurring to a party of first explorers as they ate a meal on the banks.

The most important municipality in the region, Leesville, was originally called Leesburg. Because there already was a Leesburg, the postoffice department insisted that the name be changed. But local residents stubbornly insisted on Leesburg in speaking of their village.

Leesville was a noted abolition center in pre-Civil war days and the walls of its little town hall often rang with the eloquence of Garrison, Fred Douglass, Wendell Phillips and other abolitionists.

Her face brightened a little.

"Yes, please call. I'll be very good."

The door shut behind him.

* * *

Sondra stooped and picked up a long strand of brown seaweed that a tiny wave had left close to her feet.

"I suppose you must go back to town tonight?" she said.

"I'm afraid so."

Anderson stood still and looked out over the sea. He wore no hat and the soft breeze had ruffled his hair, giving him a surprising look of youth. Sondra laughed as she looked at him.

"Do you know I've never seen you look so thoroughly untidy," she said. "Or so—" or so happy she had been going to add, but stopped.

Anderson laughed, too, and passed a hand across his hair.

"You look rather a scaramouche yourself, young woman," he told her with pretended severity, his eyes wandering over her slender figure. She was wearing a white frock, sleeveless and cut low at the neck, and she had taken off her shoes and stockings and slung them carelessly over her arm.

It was a glorious evening, with a blue cloudless sky, faintly tinged with the first glow of a riotous sunset.

Sondra had been four days at the quaint little cottage that stood back in a sheltered angle of the coast, and already she felt a different creature.

"I never thought I could enjoy a holiday like this," she said with a little grimace. "Old clothes—nothing to do but walk and bathe and sleep—"

"And eat," he supplemented comically. "I've never seen any one with such an enormous appetite as you have developed."

She made a little grimace. "I don't see how you can know—you don't have meals with me—except dinner"

She had been up each night to dine at the hotel where Anderson was staying.

She gave a quick little sigh. "It will be deadly when you've gone," she said.

"You'll soon find some one to take my place," he assured her. "And even if you don't—" he broke off, to go on after a moment more briskly, "I've behaved disgracefully as it is—breaking engagements in town at the last moment. People will be wondering what the attraction is."

"All the best people are out of town now, John."

They strolled on close to the edge of the water.

"How long do you think I had better stay here?" she asked suddenly.

"As long as you like." Anderson was busily engaged lighting his pipe. "Or until you have to come back."

"What do you mean by that?"

"Only that we may hear soon when Merriman is expected."

"Oh."

A shadow crossed her radiant face; during the last few days she had forgotten all about Mark.

"We can't hear just yet, can we?" she asked. "And anyway it's a long voyage."

She shivered, and he asked quickly. "You're not cold?"

"No—but I think someone walked over my grave."

"I think you had better put on your shoes and stockings; the sun's going down."

She said after a moment, "I think you might stay until after dinner at any rate."

"I'm afraid I can't."

"Do you have to be there early?"

"Yes—I've got a luncheon engagement."

"Who with?"

He told her unhesitatingly.

"With the Symons'."

Sondra's face changed. "Oh . . . isn't there a red-haired daughter?"

An amused smile flickered through his eyes.

"You know quite well there is." he said calmly.

They had reached a rugged breakwater which ran far out into the sea, and Sondra sat down on a broken pile, and began dragging on her stockings. Anderson watched her silently.

"I should have thought—" she said, her eyes intent on her task. "that it is far nicer down here than up in town having a stuffy lunch."

"It probably is," he agreed, "but this is a long standing engagement."

"And therefore can not be broken," she added with sarcasm.

"I only intended to stay one day when I brought you down," he reminded her.

"You could have gone back sooner if you'd chosen," she retorted childishly.

She paused for a moment in her task and looked out over the sea: some people were bathing a little distance away and their laughter and voices came clearly through the quiet evening.

Sondra said suddenly, "I've a great mind to run back for my bathing dress and have a dip before dinner."

"You won't do anything of the sort," Anderson retorted calmly. "You've been in twice today already and it's getting late."

"What time is it?"

"Nearly seven."

She looked rebellious. "I don't see why I shouldn't," she murmured.

Anderson laughed. "But then you never see why you shouldn't do a thing you want to do," he retorted calmly. "Three times in one day is too often to bathe; you'd probably get the cramp, and I should have to dash in and save you and spoil the only suit I've got with me."

She flashed him a quick glance. "It might pay you better to let me drown," she said.

Anderson sat down a little distance from her and began idly throwing pebbles into the sea.

"I call that blatant fishing for compliments," he said.

Sondra frowned and leaned her chin in her hand.

She had been happy during these few days by the sea. Anderson had spent most of the time with her, driving around the country, or walking the long golden sands.

They had talked of all sorts of things but never of any serious matters, and Mark's name had not been mentioned until a moment ago, and she thought that then it was as if he deliberately brought her mind back to the future, defying her to forget her responsibilities.

It was as if someone had drawn a cloud across the face of the sun, as if a stern hand had been laid on the light-hearted irresponsibility to which she had entirely given herself, reminding her that it must end. She looked again at the sea where now only a solitary bather was splashing in the sunlight—he looked lonely she thought, lonely as Anderson had suddenly made her feel.

She said with a hard note in her voice—

"I can't remember that you have ever paid me a compliment in all your life."

He looked at her with a whimsical smile.

"'Why gild the lily'," he quoted lightly. "Besides I haven't known you all my life."

She looked at him from under her dark lashes.

"Are you ever serious?" she asked exasperatedly.

"It has been known," he answered.

She stood up with a half shrug of her shoulders.

"Well, I suppose we may as well go home. You seem to—" she broke off, turning her face towards the sea, shading her eyes against the brilliant light of the setting sun. "Look—" she pointed to the bather, "listen!"

A sudden ringing cry for help came to them from the sea.

"Heart of a Wife"

BY ADELE GARRISON

Her Husband's Absence Brings a Complete Nervous Collapse.

WHILE I hesitated before Helena Brixton's door, undecided whether I ought to go in and risk intrusion upon her agony even to deliver my message to Harry Underwood, the door opened suddenly and the physician who had attended Mrs. Brixton the day before stood in the doorway. His face, sober and worried, lightened as he saw me, and he beckoned me inside, closing the door quickly.

I soon realized the reason for that action. With that door opened, even though the one into the bedroom was nearly closed, the low, pitiful but indistinct moans I had heard became intelligible, and would have been interesting and highly illuminative to possible curious listeners from the corridor.

"Oh! My child and my husband! My baby and my man! Carolyn! Sam! Where have you gone? Have they killed you, those cruel men? Oh! I know they have, or you would come back to me. They might keep Carol, for she's not strong enough to fight them, but Sam! Nobody could keep you from me if you were alive. Oh! My husband and my baby!"

"She goes over the same thing constantly," the doctor whispered, as Helena, without an instant's stopping for breath, began her moaning plaint again. "I've given her a sedative, and if it doesn't work I'll have to use a hypodermic, although I do not like to. She isn't in especially good condition, physically or mentally, of course, just now.

Mrs. Brixton's Condition

"I'm glad you came just as you did," the physician went on. "I must do some necessary telephoning if I stay here for awhile, and until the nurse comes . they need someone like you in readiness to do little necessary things. You see, she will not let her son or Mr. and Mrs. Underwood stir from her side, even to do anything for her, and your niece has gone after the nurse. So if you can stay in this room until the nurse comes?"

"Of course," I said, as he looked at me inquiringly. "But Mrs. Brixton is quite capricious. She was extremely nervous when I last saw her, and requested Mrs. Underwood to send me away."

He nodded gravely.

"Yes, I should expect her to do something like that," he said, "so be careful that she does not see or hear you. I will go back in and slip Mr. Underwood a short note, saying that you are out here at hand if they need anyone. That is all that anyone can do just now."

I nodded my acquiescence, and he scribbled a few lines on the face of a prescription pad, tore off the page, folded it into small compass and went back into Helena's room. He came out a few seconds later, nodded significantly to me, and went hurriedly away.

I waited tensely, not daring to move about or to rustle a paper for fear Helena should hear me and be disturbed. No expert medical opinion was needed to tell that the hapless woman in the next room was in a dangerous condition. If she did not obtain relief soon from the terrible emotional stress that was shaking her, she might very easily go out of life upon that raging current.

It seemed hours until the doctor returned, although he was gone only twenty minutes. When he came in a capable, sweet-faced woman in the garb of a nurse was with him, and he looked inquiringly at me.

A Drastic Measure

"No change," I told him in a low murmur. "Mr. Underwood came to the door once, and signaled me for a glass of water, which I brought him, but there was nothing else. I am sure she does not know I am here."

The physician stood still for a few seconds, listening to that incoherent moaning which seemed to have grown louder, more excited, then he started for the door resolutely.

"It must be the hypodermic, then," he said. "Get everything ready, Miss Bates, so that we need not startle her any more than necessary. She is going to fight it, I am certain."

His words were prophetic, for, after the entrance of the nurse into the room, Helena's moans changed to a shrill, horrified wailing.

"You're not going to put me to sleep when my baby or Sam may need me," she cried. "I won't have it! I must be ready to go to them. Lillian, tell them they shan't. Tell them—"

"Helena, dearest, look at me! Listen to me!" Lillian's voice, firm, commanding, insistent, sound through the door, and I knew that she had caught Helena's frightened eyes with her own, and was holding them steady. "Did you ever know me to tell you an untruth in your life?"

The moaning ceased, and then Helena's husky voice murmured, "No."

"Then believe me when I tell you that this is the only thing that will enable you to help Carolyn and Sam. You may die, if you do not take it. Please, for me, dearest!"

"Will you promise me—" the husky voice died away as if from weariness, and Lillian said quietly:

"What is it you want me to promise you?"

But I knew!

The Stars Say—

For Wednesday, Aug. 10

THE astrological forecast for this day is not an altogether fortunate one. There are several lunar transits that must be interpreted as adverse in business, finance and contracts. However, there is something to be gained by diligence, industry and the cooperation of elderly persons.

Those whose birthday it is may not expect an entirely prosperous year, although there may be some increase of real possessions or some gain through perseverance and industry. A child born on this day may be disposed to hard work and perseverance, but may encounter much opposition, possibly of a treacherous or subtle nature.

MONTE WEAVER SETS UP 18TH VICTORY AS NATS BEAT INDIANS

Washington Rookie Has Tough Time, but Beats Cleveland, 7-6.

By The Associated Press

Walter Johnson perhaps has few visions now of winning an American league pennant with his Washington Senators this season, but at least he has uncovered the most effective pitching rookie in the circuit.

Monte M. Weaver, who quit mathematical calculations to cast his lot with baseball, now leads both leagues in games won and lost with 18 victories and only five defeats. His only real rival among first-year men seems to be Lon Warneke, of the Chicago Cubs.

Weaver has beaten every club in the American league at least once. He has whipped the Philadelphia Athletics five times; Boston and Chicago thrice; New York, Cleveland and St. Louis twice and Detroit once. Of his five defeats, three were handed him by St. Louis. The others are credited to New York and Chicago. What makes Weaver's record all the more remarkable is that he suffered three defeats in one five-day period and now has not lost a game since June 14.

He needed all sorts of luck yesterday, however, to chalk up his eighteenth triumph at the expense of the Cleveland Indians, 7-6. He was battered for 10 hits and was driven to cover in the eighth inning when the Indians rallied for two runs, within one of a tie.

The only other clubs in action, the St Louis Cardinals and Phillies, put in exactly five hours and seven minutes actual playing time as the Cards won two games, 7-6 and 6-4 in 11 innings. The Phils, as a result, dropped into fifth place in the National league standing.

OLYMPIC FOOTBALL GAME WON BY WEST

By The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Aug. 9—"Gus" Shaver of Southern California personally attended to snatching victory for the western "big three" eleven from an eastern team last evening in a demonstration game of American college football, played under the flood-lights of the Olympic stadium.

The final score was 7 to 6 in favor of the combined forces of U. S. C., California and Stanford, against the aggregation representing Yale, Harvard and Princeton, but the far western players gave a more superior exhibition of offensive football than the margin indicated. All the scoring was confined to the last period.

BRAZILIAN STARS BARRED AFTER ROW

South American Aquatic Artists Start Small Riot by Attack on Hungarian Referee.

By The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Aug. 9—A calm settled down on the Olympic swimming stadium today, as aquatic artists of the world returned to the routine of record-breaking after the small riot which disturbed yesterday's events.

Three Brazilian stars were barred from further competition and that country's water polo team disqualified as a result of their attack on Bela Komjadi of Hungary, referee.

The wild scramble of flying fists and kicking feet came as a climax to the third day of the meet, which saw one world's record bettered for the fifth time and two new Olympic marks set up, one of these for the fifth time.

Helene Madison, Seattle's 20-year-old breaker of free style records, proved she is still the greatest 100 meter sprinter of the world by winning the final in 1 minute 6.8 seconds, defeating Willimijntje Den Ouden, young Dutch girl, by two meters.

America Leads

The United States as a result, took the leadership in women's team scores, with 17 points, against five for Holland and one for South Africa.

There is a strong chance that this lead will be cut down today with the finals of the women's 200-meter breast stroke, for Clare Dennis, 19-year-old Australian girl, set a new Olympic record in the semi-finals with Margaret Hoffman of Kingston, Pa., trailing.

United States moved into the men's team leadership over Japan yesterday when Mickey Riley Galitzen won the spring board diving title with Harold Smith and Richard Degener, both of Yankee extraction, second and third. The count now stands 27 for United States, 19 for Japan, three for Canada and two for Germany.

Close competition is expected in the 400 meter races.

The rioting followed the first water polo game yesterday, when Brazil lost a rough contest to Germany, 7 to 3. Members of the Brazilian team, feeling that Komjadi had discriminated against them, swam to the judge's stand, surrounded and struck him.

Fans Join Row

Many partisan fans swarmed from the stands to participate in the fistic argument, but the only injuries appeared to be badly ruffled feelings and disarrayed clothes.

Officers of the International Swimming Federation met immediately and wrote the Brazilian team out of the championship and three members out of any further participation in swimming events.

The United States and Hungary are tied for first in the water polo with two victories each, with Germany second and Japan last.

SEEDED STARS WIN IN TENNIS TOURNEY

By The Associated Press

CULVER, Ind., Aug. 9—The seeded list in both divisions was intact today as the national junior and boys singles tennis championships went into the third round on the Culver military academy courts.

Frankie Parker of Milwaukee, seeded number one in the junior tournament, progressed to the third round yesterday without the loss of a game, and the other favorites, Gene Marks of Los Angeles, Marco Hecht of New York, and Jack Lynch of Taft, Cal., the defender, moved along almost as easily.

WRESTLERS COLLIDE, BOUT "NO CONTEST"

By The Associated Press

CAMDEN, N. J., Aug. 9—Joe Montana, 194, Camden Italian heavyweight, and "Casey" Kazanjian, 210, of Los Angeles, last night collided head-on in the windup of the Pennsauken open-air wrestling show, and knocked one another out.

Referee Bob Jones officially declared the bout "no contest" after the freak ending which came about five minutes before the limit was up. Previously, each man had won one fall.

SOFTBALL BOARD IN IMPORTANT MEETING

Presbyterian Protest of Loss to Calvary Again Before Commission Tonight.

Facing the difficult of deciding a question, the outcome of which may decide the championship of the No. 1 Sunday school league, the city softball commission will convene tonight at the Y. M. C. A. The meeting is called for 7:45 p. m.

The recent protest filed by the First Presbyterians after they had been defeated by Calvary Evangelical 4-1 will be the problem before the commission. The protest has been the basis of considerable argument among softball followers and officials of the game ever since it was filed immediately after Calvary won from the Presbies some time ago. The protest questions the eligibility of a Calvary player who entered the game in the final inning as a pinch hitter.

W. N. Fabian, vice president of the commission, is expected to be in charge of tonight's session. He has issued an urgent plea for all commissioners to be on hand. Inasmuch as several of the board are directly connected with the teams involved and can therefore not vote, it will be necessary to have almost every member present in order to have a quorum.

Besides the protest decision the commission may name the opening date of the Little World series. The city championship series is expected to open on either Aug. 29 or 30.

OLYMPIC FIGHTERS SQUARE OFF TODAY

By The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Aug. 9—The pugilistic pick of five continents, some 90 boxers, square off here this afternoon in preliminary bouts of the international combat to determine the 1932 Olympic games champions.

One of the strongest fields in many Olympiads will swing into action with eight titles, from flyweight to heavyweight, as the prizes. Eighteen nations are represented. Final bouts will be Saturday night.

Italy, winner of the 1928 team championship, is seeking fresh honors with representation in every class. Argentina and the United States, who placed second and third places respectively at Amsterdam, and Germany, likewise have entries in every division. Canada lacks an entrant only in the 175 pound ranks.

BIRDS SOARING

Columbus Takes Fourth Game in Row from Minneapolis.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Aug. 9 — The Minneapolis Millers staggered into Louisville today, with only one thing to console them—they didn't have to play the Columbus Red Birds.

Their handsome six-game lead with which they started the current road trip, had dwindled to one game, and Manager Donie Bush was frantically seeking the cause of the trouble. The Red Birds' final gesture of the four game series was a 4 to 2 pasting last night, making a clean sweep of the set, and accounting for the Millers' seventh defeat in eight games.

Bud Parmelee restricted the Minneapolis sluggers to six hits and until the ninth inning, had them shut out.

METHODISTS BUMPED BY ST. PAUL 5-4 IN NO. 2 LEAGUE CLASH

Wesley Beats U. B. 6-0 in Finale for Both; Christian No. 1 Forfeits.

BY BOB KIRKPATRICK
Sports Editor, The Star

Without so much as lifting a bat the Christian Seniors, with Paul Rice as the team's guiding hand, has been assured nothing worse than a tie for the championship of the No. 2 Sunday school league. For this little achievement Rice and his cohorts can thank the St. Paul Lutherans. The St. Paul boys, securely lodged in a tie for sixth place in the league standings stepped out yesterday afternoon and handed the Epworth Seniors a stinging 5-4 setback which shoved the Methodists a full two games back of the Christian Seniors.

The Epworth Seniors have one game left to play to two for the Christians. A victory for the Methodists against two defeats for the Christians would deadlock the final standings and necessitate a playoff. However, to expect the Christians to drop two straight tilts after having gone through the season with only one defeat in 12 starts is expecting almost too much.

St. Paul in Form

It would be altogether unfair to the St. Paul team to pick out any one player and name him the principal reason for the defeat of Epworth. However, if there is anyone who earned more than an equal share of the praise, it is Don Lindsey, pitcher and batter de luxe of the Lutheran combine. Lindsey set the Methodists down with seven safeties and kept them well scattered. However, as far as hits alone are concerned, Lindsey was outpitched by Bryant Corwin of the Methodist team. Corwin allowed only six hits but made the fatal error of allowing them to be too well bunched. Lindsey, besides twirling a good game, smacked out a triple in the third frame that completed a rally good for four runs. Art Staker turned in what proved to be the winning tally by riding one out for a homer in the fourth frame.

Only one other game was played yesterday. Wesley M. E. kept pace with St. Paul in the standings, defeating United Brethren 6-0 to retain a share in sixth place. Tony Lashey set the Brethren down with four hits and contributed a home run to aid his own cause. Lattimore and Gorenflo also turned in homers for the Wesley team. Lashey struck out eight United Brethren batters.

The Christian No. 1 team forfeited its game to Forest Lawn through failure to have enough men on hand to play the game. The Christian Seniors were not scheduled.

FIGHT ENTRIES MUST BE IN BY WEDNESDAY

Forty Amateur Pugs Already Signed Up for Ring Tournament Here.

With approximately 40 simon pure beak busters already having signed their John Hancock on the dotted line of the official entry blank, the success of the North Central Ohio Amateur boxing tournament, slated to get under way here Thursday night, is virtually assured. The fights will be held at the open air arena at the Shovel athletic field on Uncapher avenue, starting next Thursday and continuing four successive Thursday nights.

Wednesday, Aug. 10 at 7 p. m. is the deadline for entries in the swat tourney. Before that time is reached Manager H. A. Tarr expects the entry list to be swelled beyond the half century total. At 7 p. m. Wednesday the weighing in of the fighters will be held and they will also be given a medical examination. All entrants are urged to be on hand at that time if possible. If not, they should make special arrangements for the examination as they cannot enter the ring without a certificate of fitness.

All entrants are also urged to be at the gymnasium at 144 Mill street on Wednesday, Aug. 10 at 9 a. m. if possible. They will go through a workout at this time under the direction of the tournament manager.

Pairings for the fights will be announced Thursday.

Amateur Heads Refuse To Reinstate Paavo Nurmi

By The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Aug. 9—Paavo Nurmi is through as an amateur outside of his native Finland, even though the International Amateur Athletic federation has concluded its 1932 congress without officially stamping the famous Finn as a professional or acquiring the executive powers needed to rule him out of the simon pure ranks.

Ranking officials of the Amateur Athletic union of the United States, including Avery Brundage and Daniel J. Ferris, president and secretary, refused today to pass definitely on whether Nurmi would be permitted to engage in amateur competition in this country. Fred W. Rubien, veteran American delegate to the I. A. A. F., declared:

"Nurmi is through as an amateur unless he continues to run only in Finland. We don't know whether he intends to turn pro. The Finns say he will not and insist he is still in good standing."

Although the Finns claimed a moral victory yesterday at the federation's congress, they failed to get any definite action clearing Nurmi of the charges of professionalism which caused rejection of his Olympic entry. The vote was so close over granting the executive council power to debar an athlete of a member nation, for rules violations, the issue was put over until the 1934 congress in Stockholm.

Cleveland has three nine-hole courses on which par is three for every hole.

SPORTSMANSHIP IS VICTOR HERE

Rivalry was forgotten after the close victory of Lauri Lehtinen (right) of Finland in the 5,000-meter Olympics run over Ralph Hill (left) of Oregon. Lehtinen gave Hill his Finnish team pin and Hill, who refused to protest the Finn's victory, is shown pinning an American emblem on Lehtinen's lapel. (Associated Press Photo)

PYTLAK RECALLED TO HELP INDIAINS

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 9—Frank Pytlak, young catcher farmed out to Toledo early this year, was called back to the Cleveland Indians today, because of an injury received by Catcher Luke Sewell in yesterday's game between the Tribe and the Washington Senators.

Sewell's little finger on his right hand was broken by a foul tip in the eighth.

After leading all United States colleges in numbers of athletes on the 1924 and 1928 Olympic teams, Southern California this year lost out to Stanford, which had six to the Trojans' five.

Edward L. Gordon this year became the first University of Iowa athlete to make two American Olympic teams. He competed in the broad jump in 1928 and 1932.

ASHBY'S TOUGH, BUT THAT'S NOT ENOUGH TO BEAT ROBIN REED

Chicagoan Pinned by Oregon Star as 2,000 Fans Look on.

Spike Ashby, the Chicago mat racketeer, brought back his knuckle head lock last night but even a partially blinded Robin Reed battled his way to victory.

Nearly 2,000 fans watched Reed put on a spectacular finish in the main go of last night's wrestling card at the Steam Shovel open air arena when he butted Ashby from the ring twice.

Ashby worked hard in an effort to give Reed the "works" but the former Olympic star was just too good to be taken by straight wrestling. Ashby was unable to put many punishing holds on the Oregon boy and when he did Reed's feet went into action. Ashby thought that Reed had an extra set of hands before the match was over.

Reed took the first fall in 31 minutes with a series of flying wrist locks. Ashby was concentrating his efforts on Reed's arms but was getting nowhere. Countering a flying head scissors with a reverse back slam, Ashby took the second fall in 13 minutes

Ashby used his knuckle head lock to an advantage in the third fall but failed to stand up against Reed's recklessness. Throwing Ashby out of the ring with a flying head scissors Reed then butted him twice as he attempted to return to the ring. An airplane slam finished Ashby in seven and a half minutes.

Sammy Vangler was given the referee's decision over Bobby Novak in their semi-final bout. Vangler won the first fall in 32 minutes and neither was able to do much good during the remaining 12 minutes.

Joe Carney of Seattle pinned Bob Lake of Columbus after 11 minutes of their preliminary match with a crotch slam

Wallace Wade's coaching school at Duke university with an enrollment of 118 set a record for coaching schools in the southeast.
